This was a well grown small plant with 5 open inflorescences and one in bud. They were fairly evenly distributed around the pot. There were 20 plus flowers per spike, beautifully arranged, looking at you from all directions. The flowers were starry shaped, and the flower segments were sprinkled with small dark brown spots on a creamy, light brown background. The labellum showed heavy, strong

Graham Fear

Welcome to the October edition of our magazine.

How the year has flown. We now only have two more meetings until the end of the year. Looking back, it has been another successful year, with many great plants shown. As the flowering season start to slow down, it is now time to reflect on what your collections will be like for next season.

The task of culling is not an easy one for us all, but if you want to keep ahead of the game, you must decide on the plants that are not up to scratch, have not flowered (but do you need to keep just in case? No, you don't.). The green bin is the answer, so be strong as you will need the room for those seedlings which are nearly due to go into 7inch pots, so the green bin it is.

It has been disappointing with the amount of guest speakers this year, as we have had a lot of drop outs that are hard to replace, as the number of speakers nationally is getting shorter every year.

We have a few already locked in for next year, and we are actively looking for speakers who have not spoken in SA before, so we can have a point of difference with our speakers in 2019

October's meeting is going to be very entertaining, with a team quiz night, at which we will set the hall up in tables of eight, and have a bit of fun. This will be followed by a plant auction as a fund raiser for the club, with an opportunity to purchase some special plants.

Good plants are only to be brought along, and the sale price will be split 60% to the member and 40% to the club. Please present a list of the names of the plants, and a reserve price, with your name on top, to myself before the meeting starts, and we will have tables down the front so all plants can be viewed.

If the plant is not flowering, a photo or printed copy of the flowers should be attached. This will be a great opportunity to get some good plants for those of you who need to improve their collection, or if you have been seeking that one special plant that may come up at the auction.

All monies should be given to Christine at the end of the auction. It will be difficult to have to wait for you payment at a later date.

The club now has credit card and eftpos facilities, so the cost of auction plants and next year's fees can now be paid by this method. See Christine and Craig if you wish to pay by this method.

We are still trying to find something different for our last meeting of the year. Ideas range from a Dolphin Dinner Cruise, Chinese Banquet, finger food at the hall and other such things. If you have any ideas please let us know at the meeting and we will look at the feasibility of what we can do in November.

I look forward to seeing you all on the 23rd

Kind regards, Graham Fear, President

Wanted Plants for the October meeting Auction

The club is seeking plants to offer at the Auction at the October meeting.

Members supplying plants will be paid 60% of the sale price.

This is an opportunity to promote and sell some special plants you may have, but other members do not know about. Test the market here to see what the members think about the plants you are growing, and particularly are looking to sell.

Our members are always looking to purchase top quality new plants, and some creative new breeding lines are always in demand.

Please take note of the comments by Graham Fear, in the President's report on page 4. Bring the plants along before the meeting, and give a list of your auction plants to Graham Fear. To secure a good sales price, provide as much information as possible about the plants to be auctioned. If you have photographs available, bring them along on a memory stick, and they can be shown during the auction.

Note we now have EFTPOS facilities available for buyers.

Make this night a success and it could be a highly anticipated annual event.

It could be a real achievement to supply the plant which sells for the highest price.

Dropped Lips – A cure

A dropped lip on a cymbidium orchid flower is not a sign that it is about to burst into tears, as often is seen in humans. It is where the labellum (lip) drops down (sometimes completely off). It spoils the appearance of that flower, and complete flower spike. It can seriously reduce the chance of the plant winning a prize on the showbench, though, if it was damaged in transit to the show or meeting, it should be reported as “damaged in transit”, and the judges should judge it as if it were undamaged (difficult for them)

Sometimes the lip can be carefully pushed back into position, but often it just drops again. I have seen where a pin is pushed through the lip, and the flower column, to keep it in position, but that process actually does further damage to the flower, and that flower often starts dying, and the colour of that flower changes significantly.

I was shown a neat process to hold a dropped lip in position, when I attended the Cymbidium Orchid Society of Victoria (COSV) show recently. A small piece of clear sticky tape about 10 or 12 millimetres wide and about 60 or 70 mm long is cut, and wound around a small diameter rod about 15 mm in diameter (your middle finger is about the right size) to form a ring. This ring is slid over base of the detached lip, from the bottom. The lip, with the ring of sticky tape can then be carefully slid down the column of the flower, to the position it was in before being damaged. The lip of the damaged flower will still die within some days, and in doing so discolour badly, but hopefully it looks good enough for the judges to award it a prize. It might even last out the duration of a show, and certainly looks better than if it were left dropped.

Practice this procedure on an old or insignificant flower spike, before you need to do it on your potential show champion. You might need to adjust the width and length of the sticky tape, to suit the particular size of flower you are rescuing.

Thanks to Terry Poulton (TeePee) for this trick.

See photographs on pages 10 and 11 to help understand this trick.

There will be no Single Flower Competition this month

An unknown cymbidium with yellow//brown coloured flowers. This was an earlier hybrid, typical with it's starry shape. It was healthy and clean, boasting 4 inflorescences with fresh flowers displayed very nicely on the stem, thanks to their good substance. The yellow background was complimented by a touch of brown on the edge of the segments, and the red spots on the labellum.
